Recent improvements to terms and conditions are listed below and replace the equivalent clauses:

- Face-to-face counselling – (employees only) see below

Following your call to the helpline or as a result of intervention by your employer, if your counsellor considers that it would be of benefit to your circumstance, our service partner can arrange for up to six face to face counselling sessions in person. These counselling sessions occur following:

- A referral by your telephone counsellor
- A referral by your manager
- A request by yourself

The service provides access to a network of counsellors covering the UK enabling you to meet someone close to your home or place of work, typically within either 10 miles or 20 minutes' drive. Travel expenses are your responsibility. The fully experienced counsellors work with a wide range of issues including (but not limited to):

- Emotional problems
- Work related issues
- Stress/ Anxiety
- Relationship difficulties and family matters
- Bereavement
- Retirement
- Redundancy

This service is completely free of charge to you. One-off telephone counselling and online support is available for your legal partner and children aged 18-24 in full time education residing in the same household. The service is provided by a third party.
